Occupation: Housewife

Five years ago we bought our home in Kennewick and settled down to a routine life of raising a family. Outside of a few trips to the coast, our life was very uneventful until a year ago when we started to fellow construction. Our first stop was Becker, a little town 40 miles N. W. of Minneapolis. Tornado watches and hail storms convinced us that was no place to make a home. Next stop was La Cross, Wisconsin. Beautiful country if you don't mind sub-zero weather and mountains of snow for Christmas. From there we moved to Morris, Illinois, 70 miles S. W. of Chicago. This is the state of bad roads, high taxes, and one constant traffic jam. Next stop we hope will be home. All in all, we have had an interesting trip.

KAREN PETERSEN WHITMAN

Spouse: Kim

Occupation: Executive secretary to Attorney General for the State of Oregon
As one approaches high school graduation, there is a tendency to idealize the future.....as if one could shed the warm protective wrap called childhood, change abruptly to trade for an uncertain and frightening but terribly intriguing world of potential called adulthood: a kind of Jekyll and Hyde syndrome. Now in retrospect, I find it amusing to admit that Karen today vs. ten years ago is basically the same person: a kind of cheerleader type. To be sure, older, experienced, wiser, mellowed, but gratefully able to approach each day lightheartedly knowing that life is like the game I used to cheer: a game to be played, played well and honestly with a very exciting potential--winning the game. I am the mother of a delightful nine-year-old lad; the wife of Kim, a public relations type active in politics, who is appropriately my better half; and a traveler of many of the states in the nation, having lived in the east. I exercised empathy for four years as a medical assistant, and in summary of the last five years, I jumped into politics in the '68 Primary to assist the Lee Johnson for A. G. campaign. Also had the opportunity to interview Richard M. Nixon before the tube which wasn't all that much until he played the game well enough to win! Presently I am the executive secretary to Attorney General Lee Johnson and I adore skiing, interior decorating, calligraphy, and campaigning for a cause. Yours faithfully until cheerleaders are no more.

After spending a delightful 8 months on the road in Europe, I entered graduate school in history at the U. of Oregon and managed an M.A. in 1967. During a lull in the battle with the books, while my guard was down, I was married. After one year's work toward the Ph.D., I was "called" to teach. It was either this or draft-resistance work so I combined the two and here I am in the midst of sagebrush and cow-pies. It's for a short time, though, since we are both itching to get back to school. This summer we will be in Europe, so, regretfully, we cannot attend the reunion.

After working seven months with IH, I had the opportunity to go to work with my present employer, Chipper Machines and Engineering Corp., a step which I have never regretted. I'm still leading the carefree life of a bachelor, but who knows, one of these days I might decide to settle down.
